KATHY WANG

MARKETING & SALES POINTS

HOT BOOK OF 2022: Highly anticipated, razor-sharp novel about women in the workplace, the power of Big Tech and the looming threat of foreign espionage

Perfect for fans of Tahmima Anam's The Startup Wife (1.4K HB sold) and Zakiya Dalila Harris' The Other Black Girl (6K HB sold)

Extensive publicity and marketing campaign planned for this key 2022 VERVE title. Hundreds of early proofs available for booksellers, media and bloggers to build word of mouth

US edition (HarperCollins) selected as a Good Morning America Buzz Pick; named a Best Book of Summer by Entertainment Weekly, New York Post, Buzzfeed, TheSkimm, PopSugar, Bustle, HelloGiggles, Ms. Magazine, Oprah Daily, USA Today, Philadelphia Inquirer & Lit Hub; chosen as a Most Anticipated Book of 2021 by The Millions, Harper's Bazaar, Marie Claire & CrimeReads

Author's critically-acclaimed debut, Family Trust (HarperCollins / Head of Zeus), was reviewed across the press including the Sunday Times ('Wang's satire has bite') and Irish Times ('The writing is biting, bristling, intelligent... frequently funny'), and was the inaugural selection of the BuzzFeed Book Club

THE BOOK

Julia Lerner is one of the most powerful people in Silicon Valley and an icon to professional women across the country. She is the COO of Tangerine, one of America's biggest technology companies. She is also a Russian spy. Julia has been carefully groomed to reach the upper echelons of the company and use Tangerine's software to covertly funnel information back to Russia's largest intelligence agency.

Alice Lu works as a low-level analyst within Tangerine, having never quite managed to climb the corporate ladder. One afternoon, when performing a server check, Alice discovers some unusual activity and is burdened with two powerful but distressing suspicions: Tangerine's privacy settings aren't as rigorous as the company claims they are and the person abusing this loophole might be Julia Lerner herself. Now, she must decide what to do with this information - before Julia finds out she has it.

PRAISE FOR IMPOSTOR SYNDROME

'A trenchant critique of our dependence on social media - and a great page-turner' - Tahmima Anam, author of The Startup Wife

'A wickedly convincing deep-dive into the dark underbelly of Silicon Valley' - Ruth Ware, internationally bestselling author

'A skilled satirist of the Northern California dream' - Harper's Bazaar

'Wang restyles Silicon Valley's famed "toxicity" around gender and race into actual poison, and translates workplace politics into a caper of geopolitical consequence. Impostor Syndrome, like its two heroines, wears its greatness lightly' - New Republic

'A smart page-turner' - Oprah Daily

'A propulsive spy thriller and a sharp take on the illusion of the American Dream' - People

'Like John le Carré filtered through Tom Wolfe, Impostor Syndrome encapsulates our Facebook anxieties perfectly' - The Millions

'The Silicon Valley spy novel we've all been waiting for, with a side order of biting satire and furious feminism' - CrimeReads

'Satisfying...Wang sets the story in the overheated Silicon Valley and sharpens her teeth on its self-mythologizing and excesses' - San Francisco Chronicle

'Excellent... Wang deftly explores some of the broader cultural issues she broached in Family Trust as well - how women and BIPOC are treated in corporate America, and who has access to the American dream' - BuzzFeed

Kathy Wang grew up in Northern California and holds degrees from UC Berkeley and Harvard Business School. She lives in the Bay Area with her husband and two children.
